

Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nguyen Duc Minh, MD, PhD

Director – Ha Dong Traditional Medicine Hospital

Vice President, Hanoi Association of Traditional Medicine

Professional Biography

Associate Professor Nguyen Duc Minh is a specialist in Traditional Medicine and acupuncture with extensive experience in clinical practice, hospital management, and scientific research. His professional work focuses on the clinical application of acupuncture and traditional medicine in the treatment of neurological disorders, musculoskeletal conditions, and rehabilitation medicine.

He currently serves as Director of Ha Dong Traditional Medicine Hospital and Vice President of the Hanoi Association of Traditional Medicine. Throughout his career, he has played an important role in improving the quality of traditional medicine healthcare services, promoting the integration of traditional medicine with modern medical practice, and advancing the development of acupuncture and rehabilitation techniques.

In addition to clinical practice and healthcare management, he actively contributes to professional training, scientific research, and the development of human resources in the field of traditional medicine.

Clinical and Research Expertise

- Acupuncture treatment for neurological disorders
- Rehabilitation using traditional medicine therapies
- Management of musculoskeletal disorders using acupuncture
- Non-pharmacological therapies in traditional medicine
- Integration of traditional medicine with modern medical practice

International Academic Activities

Associate Professor Nguyen Duc Minh has participated in various academic and research activities related to traditional medicine and acupuncture. These activities include conducting and participating in research projects in acupuncture and rehabilitation medicine, publishing scientific papers in national medical journals, and contributing to postgraduate education and professional training in traditional medicine.

Areas of Academic Interest

- Clinical application of acupuncture in neurological diseases
- Rehabilitation medicine in traditional medicine practice
- Acupuncture treatment for musculoskeletal disorders
- Integration of traditional medicine with modern medicine
- Clinical research in acupuncture and rehabilitation medicine

International Contributions

Through his professional activities and leadership roles, Associate Professor Nguyen Duc Minh has contributed to the development of traditional medicine services in Hanoi, particularly in the clinical application of acupuncture and rehabilitation therapies. He has also contributed to the training of traditional medicine physicians and healthcare professionals and to improving the quality of traditional medicine healthcare services.

Keynote Profile

Associate Professor Nguyen Duc Minh is widely recognized for his experience in clinical practice and healthcare management in the field of traditional medicine. His presentations often focus on the clinical application of acupuncture in neurological and musculoskeletal disorders, as well as the integration of traditional medicine with modern medical practice.