

Professor Liu Baoyan, MD, PhD

President, World Federation of Acupuncture-Moxibustion Societies

Chief Research Scientist, China Academy of Chinese Medical Sciences

President, China Association of Acupuncture-Moxibustion

Professional Biography

Professor Liu Baoyan is a globally recognized expert in acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM). He currently serves as President of the World Federation of Acupuncture-Moxibustion Societies (WFAS), the largest international academic organization dedicated to acupuncture and moxibustion, with member societies in more than 70 countries. Also Chief Research Scientist at the China Academy of Chinese Medical Sciences (CACMS), the leading national research institution for Traditional Chinese Medicine in China.

Professor Liu is internationally known for pioneering research in the evidence-based evaluation of acupuncture therapies, developing clinical research methodologies suited to Traditional Chinese Medicine, and promoting the standardization and global development of acupuncture practice.

Academic and Leadership Positions

- President, World Federation of Acupuncture-Moxibustion Societies
- President, China Association of Acupuncture-Moxibustion
- Chief Research Scientist, China Academy of Chinese Medical Sciences
- Director, TCM Clinical Evaluation Research Center
- Director, National Traditional Chinese Medicine Clinical Data Center
- Advisor on Traditional Medicine to World Health Organization

Clinical and Research Expertise

- Evidence-Based Medicine in Traditional Chinese Medicine
- Clinical trials and evaluation methodologies for acupuncture
- Standardization of acupuncture and moxibustion techniques
- Digital data platforms and big data in Traditional Chinese Medicine
- Development of international clinical guidelines for acupuncture therapy

International Academic Activities

Active participation in international scientific conferences, academic collaborations, and global research initiatives related to acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine. Academic activities include leadership in international academic organizations, scientific exchanges with research institutions worldwide, and contributions to international cooperation in traditional medicine research

Areas of Academic Interest

- Evidence-based research in acupuncture therapy
- Clinical research methodologies for Traditional Chinese Medicine
- Standardization of acupuncture and moxibustion techniques
- Development of international clinical guidelines for acupuncture
- Application of big data and digital platforms in traditional medicine research

International Contributions

Academic leadership and scientific activities have contributed significantly to the global development of acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine. Contributions include advancing evidence-based research in acupuncture, promoting international academic collaboration, and supporting the integration of acupuncture into modern healthcare systems.

Keynote Profile

Professor Liu Baoyan is widely recognized as a leading international authority in acupuncture research and Traditional Chinese Medicine. Keynote presentations focus on evidence-based acupuncture research, international standardization of acupuncture practice, and the global development of Traditional Chinese Medicine within modern healthcare systems.